THE CONSPIRACY CASE.

SOMETHING LIKE A MOCK TRIAL AT OTTAWA.

Martin P. Connolly's Evidence—The Books and Their Custodian Now in New York—Tarte and Thomas McGreevy Likely to Run Again.

Special to the TIMES.]

OTTAWA, Nov. 25.—The case against the Connollys and Hon. Thomas McGreevy for conspiracy was again up in the Police Court House yesterday before his honor Judge Ross. The principal witness was Martin P. Connolly, book-keeper of the late firm. He testified to seeing the books in the office of Larkin & Connolly after the seizure from the bailiff in Quebec. He believed they were in the office till November 2. Cloney was there. He saw Cloney last at Rouse's Point, N.Y., on November 6. Cloney was now at the Grand Union, New York. Cloney opened the trunks in the office at Quebec. Witness identified the contents as the Connolly books, McGreevy's books and Murphy's diaries, the same books as were produced before the parliamentary committee. He also said that Robert McGreevy was a silent partner in the firm. He checked the books. He kept the balance sheets after the audit, and Robert signed some balance sheets and refused others. Michael Connolly bought Robert's interest in the crosswall contract. All the parties received dividends, but Rober McGreevy received nearly double.

Mr. Osler endeavored to put in secondary evidence in the absence of the Connollys' books, and a long argument ensued. Finally the judge decided that as it was shown that the books had found their way to the Connollys' possession they ought to deliver them, but he did not think they could be used against them in any way to incriminate them. If they were not produced secondary evidence would be admissible.

Martin Connolly was then recalled. He knew nothing of unusual payments. He was not in the employ of the firm when the crosswall contract was made. He remembered a dispute between Kimmet, the auditor, and Murphy about notes for $25,000. Kimmet produced the notes. He saw the notes again produced by Fitzpatrick before the Parliamentary enquiry on behalf of Thomas McGreevy. The inspectors of dredging received moneys from the the firm, which are entered into the audit.

One of the witnesses subpœnaed yesterday was Tarte, who says that he will again be a candidate for Montmorency. Hon. Thomas McGreevy, who was also present, says he may yet decide to run for Quebec West.

A CANADIAN BEAUTY

Plays a Heartless Trick on a Young Man of Detroit.

DETROIT, Nov. 25.—A fashionable church on Woodward avenue is already prepared for a wedding which will never take place. To-morrow was the time fixed. Society declared it romantic that Clarence Gould, son of the richest wholesale grocer in the city, should espouse the girl who had only beauty, charming manners, a delightful voice and a few acres of Canadian soil to recommend her. Mr. Gould, senior, had furnished a fine residence for the couple. The bride-elect had purchased a $1600 trousseau, for the payment of which young Gould had given security. The young lady was Miss Edna Percy, of Napanee, Ont. Her parents died a year ago, leaving her a one-third interest in a small farm, from which she realized no cash. Her friends supplied her with money, and she left for Detroit to study in Mehan's School of Music. In Napanee there lived a druggist's clerk named Edward Fullerton, whom Miss Percy loved and had promised to marry. It is not known whether this engagement was broken by her, but it was kept secret from her sister and brother in Napanee. A prettier blonde never came to Detroit and saw and conquered. The quiet and exclusive set to which the Goulds belong took her up. She lived in fine style. Life in Detroit made her ambitious, and she accepted Clarence P. Gould's proposal of marriage, as she explained in Napanee, "for his money." Her heart remained with the dispenser of drugs, at $8 a week, in her native village. The cards were issued, and nearly all the preparations made for the wedding. The young woman took part of her trousseau a week ago and went to her sister, Mrs. Dr. Cowan, of Napanee. She and half a dozen relatives were expected to arrive in Detroit last evening. Mr. Gould had engaged rooms for them at the Hotel Cadillac. The party not arriving, Mr. Gould telegraphed to Napanee. Dr. Cowan replied, "Edna gone away. Don't know where." Young Gould took the blow very much to heart. He subsequently learned that Edna had run away to Toronto to marry Edward Fullerton.

Rate Manipulation.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—General Freight Agent, Spriggs, of the Nickle Plate, resigned the chairmanship of the special eastbound commission this afternoon. The commission is composed of the managers and officials of all the eastbound lines. These officials are bound by the strongest oath to refrain from all manipulations. Mr. Spriggs is now struggling under the weight of two indictments found by federal grand juries for rate manipulations. General Freight Agent G. S. Wright, of the B. & O., was elected chairman to succeed Mr. Spriggs. It was decided to continue the committee on the old lines, assuming jurisdiction over eastbound traffic to the exclusion of the Central Traffic Association.

A Young Lochinvar Case.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 25.—Miss Anna Harmon, of Odeon, was married to Adam Ingalls, of Worthington, on Sunday. Miss Ella Bordors married a Mr. Arthur at the same time and place. Miss Bordors' people gave a party last evening and all the above people were seated at supper with a host of friends, when Mrs. Ingalls suddenly excused herself, saying she was feeling ill. Bert Lowrie, her former admirer, was outside waiting for her, and they made their escape. Nothing has been heard from them. The irate young husband, urged on by the girl's father, mounted a horse and arming himself with a Winchester said he would bring them both back dead or alive.

Almy Knows His Fate.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 25.—Almy, the condemned murderer, was to-day apprised of his fate by Warden Colbatch, of the state prison. He told the condemned man that he had been condemned to death and that the sentence would be carried out in December, 1892. Almy paid the strictest attention while the warden was speaking to him, but when he concluded his remarks the prisoner cast his eyes on the door of his cell and heaved a deep sigh. The warden then handed him a letter sent by his counsel, Mr. Burleigh. Almy opened it and read part of it, and suddenly he asked the warden if he could talk to him later on. The warden assured him that he would give him a chance at any time. Nothing further occurred, and the warden left the condemned man's cell.

A Bank Operator.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 24.—Inquiry of the chief of Denver detectives discloses the fact that J. F. Coberle, arrested in San Francisco, is believed to be Chas. Ardine, alias Little, alias Jas. Moor, who pleaded guilty on the ninth of last March to forgery and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. During the morning of sentence he slipped his hand-cuffs, walked out of the court and was seen in Denver no more. His plan was to forge a check, go into large buildings, lay aside his coat and rush into the office and say a certain man wanted a check cashed. There are yet sixteen indictments against him. His description was sent to San Francisco to-day.

Scale on Oranges.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—The announcement that Florida oranges infested with scale are being exposed for sale in the city markets has led to prompt action on the part of the quarantine officer of the State Horticultural Board. A whole carload is now on its way here from Portland. "We have made arrangements to take charge of the car on its arrival here," said Quarantine Officer Craw. "Before the fruit is permitted to be exposed for sale we shall thoroughly fumigate it with hydrocyanic acid gas. This will not injure it, either as to appearance or for eating, but it will destroy the scale."

Charged With Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—Deputy United States marshal Marsten yesterday brought over from Alcatraz Island Cavalryman Snyder, who is charged with the murder of Sergeant Anderson in Oklahoma. It is claimed that during a wordy controversy Snyder shot and killed his superior officer and then escaped to this city, where he was captured. The prisoner is now being taken to the scene of the murder to stand his trial. To guard against any attempt to escape, handcuffs were placed on Snyder's wrists and his legs were chained so that it was barely possible for him to walk.

To Meet at Monterey.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—T. H. Goodman, general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific Company, has received information that the Mining Engineers' Association of America will hold its annual convention at the Hotel Del Monteo, Monterey, on January 3rd next. The association delegates will come out in a special train by the Union and Central Pacific. In returning they will divide into two parties, one to go back by the Ogden route and the other by the Southern Pacific line. Accomodations for 300 persons have been engaged at the Hotel Del Monte.

Transcontinental Rates.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—General Manager K. H. Wade, of the Southern California Railroad, returned to-day from Denver. He was shown a dispatch from Denver in which it was stated that he and other Santa Fe officials were there to arrange war on the Union Pacific on account of the latter's withdrawal from the Leadville pool. "While I cannot say that matter will not affect transcontinental rates," said Mr. Wade, "I do not think it very likely."

Murder Relics.

MARYSVILLE, Cala., Nov. 25.—While digging a hole to bury a pet dog, Annie Bradley, a young girl, unearthed the gold watch chain and locket taken from the body of George Hall, who was murdered here on July 15, last year. The place where the watch was found is in the rear yard belonging to John Almont, superintendent of the Marysville Bag Factory, who recently purchased the place and moved there. The place is about two blocks from the scene of the murder.

For Earthquake Sufferers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—A meeting of Japanese residents of this city will be held this evening at the rooms of the Japanese consul for the purpose of adopting measures for the relief of the sufferers in the recent earthquake. It is proposed to raise a fund immediately and on receipt of further information to adopt such other measures as may be deemed advisable.

A Private Bank Collapses.

BRADFORD, Pa., Nov. 25.—The private bank of S. Peter, Pool & Company announces its failure to-day. The capital stock of the bank is $75,000 and the firm owns half a million. Its members say they are able to pay the creditors in full.

A Disaster Reported.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 25.—It is just reported that a wall at the blast furnace here has fallen and buried a number of people.

BRAZIL QUIETING DOWN.

THE NEW PRESIDENT APPARENTLY WELL RECEIVED.

Rio Grande Province Has Declared Its Independence—The Bishop of Carlisle Dead—The French Miners' Strike—Royal Wedding at Vienna.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—A dispatch received this morning says Rio Janeiro and Brazil generally, so far as known, are in a state of quiet. Business is slowly falling back into its channels, and confidence in the maintenance of peace is expressed on all sides. The fact is not lost sight of, however, that the Province of Rio Grande do Sul has declared its independence of the United States of Brazil and that it has an army of 50,000 men at its disposal. The Province referred to has hauled down the flag of Brazil and hoisted a standard of its own. Peace pour parlers are now going in several directions, and it is hoped that Rio Grande do Sul can be induced to reconsider its action and to resume its old place, in view of the fact that Marshal da Fonseca has resigned the presidency and that Vice-President Peixotto has succeeded him. The latter is supposed to be in accord with the deposed congress, and it is expected that when he reassembles that body the president will manage to tide over all difficulties now in his path. It would appear from the present attitude of the people that they approve of the steps taken by Marshal da Fonseca and of his being succeeded by President Peixotto.

Silver Envoy in Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—Seligman, who was sent to Europe as the representative of the United States treasury department, with a view of bringing about an international conference to secure an established common rate value between gold and silver, has been in the city to secure the co-operation of France. Whitelaw Reid, the American minister, presented Seligman to Rouvier, minister of finance, to whom Seligman set forth the object of his mission. Rouvier gave Seligman a cordial reception. He expressed his sympathy with the proposal to bring about a common ratio between gold and silver, but he was not willing to take the initiative in the matter. He expressed the hope that England and Germany might be induced to co-operate with France to bring about a conference to effect the desired end.

The Austrian Royal Wedding.

VIENNA, Nov. 24.—The marriage of Archduchess Louise of Austria-Tuscany and Prince Frederick Augustus of Saxony was a stately ceremony. The chapel in which the ceremony took place was a small one, and most of the invited guests had to be content with a view of the bridal procession. This consisted of pages, chamberlains, ministers and officers of state in elaborate costume, sixteen pages in the dress of the period of Maria Theresa, and sixteen Archdukes in the uniforms of their respective regiments. The bride wore a court train of moire antique, embroidered with golden roses. She was followed by six Archduchesses, all wearing trains.

Forty Thousand Miners on Strike.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—There is no doubt now that the strike of miners in the Pas de Calais district is general. Of the 40,000 miners only 100 are at work to-day. A number of meetings have been held at various places in the department, which degenerated into riots, many bitter threats being made against the mine owners. The troops scattered the crowd without being compelled to fire.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 22.—The delegates of the various labor organizations have decided that unless the Government shortly fulfils its promise to grant universal suffrage in Belgium they will again begin a general strike.

Influenza in Europe.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Influenza is spreading in France and Germany. The epidemic has closed several schools in the department of Gers, France, and one school in Paris. It has extended all over Berlin, where Painter Spangenburg, with many others, succumbed to the disease, and it is also prevalent in Posen, West Prussia. The death rate in Hamburg is 280 above the normal average. The increase is due chiefly to influenza.

Russian Grain Export.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 24.—There are at present 24 grain ships at Odessa loading with wheat whose cargoes are not yet completed. The authorities have given permission for these ships to continue their loading until their cargo is completed, despite the fact that the ukase prohibiting the export of wheat from Russia goes into effect to-day.

Sentenced in London.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—A man known as the French Colonel, supposed to be a well known American swindler, was this morning sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment with hard labor for blackmailing Lady Jessell. For forgeries the London and Westminster Bank, the French Colonel was in addition sentenced to seven years' imprisonment with hard labor.

They Wanted the Convention.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Chairman Clarkson and Secretary Foster, of the National Republican Committee, held a conference to-day with the citizens' committee of Minneapolis, and practicallo agreed upon meeting in Minneapolis some time in December. A subcommittee of five from the National Committee will confer with the citizens of Minneapolis as to arrangements for a hall, and the preliminaries in regard to the holding of the convention. Secretary Foster is much improved this morning. He left his bed and is sitting up in his room.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—M. H. De Young, of San Francisco, while somewhat disappointed that his city failed to get the National Republican convention, he didn't feel bitter. He still thinks the convention should have gone to California. He says several members of the committee have told him they were sorry San Francisco was not selected. Even Major McKinley told him it would have been a great thing for the Republican party had the convention gone to California. The triumphal tour back to the east would have set the continent on fire with ardor for the nominees and rekindled Republican enthusiasm in the remotest corners of the union. Mr. De Young said: "Yes, I am perfectly satisfied with the result. We made a short fight, but it was the best one we knew how to put up, and are in no degree sulky at not getting it." Editor Rosewater, of Omaha, was not so philosophical. He is quite angry with the members of the committee who promised to vote for Omaha and deserted her after the first ballot.

NANAIMO NEWS.

A Budget of Happenings Reported From the Coal City.

NANAIMO, Nov. 24.—Already the municipal election for 1892 is being discussed in political circles and the question is rife as to who will run for the civic chair. The popular opinion is that should Mayor Hilbert decide to run again, whoever may be selected to oppose him will have very little show. The present mayor is very popular among the laboring classes, owing to the stand he has always taken in labor movements. It is very unlikely that the next council will get in by acclamation the same as the present mayor and aldermen did. In fact our members did the same.

YOUNG RASCALS.

Several youths, whose parents reside in the city, were arrested on Sunday on a charge of unlawfully entering the premises of Bickle & Co. and partaking of some of the good things which they discovered were so bountiful in the store. The entrance was made by means of a trap door, but the young rascals in their impudent act had not been sufficiently wary, and the result was the police made an unexpected call upon them and marched them off to goal. It is very probable the youths will receive some slight punishment as a warning to others.

NEARLY MURDERED.

The steamer Esperanza left here on Sunday night for the Seymour Narrows, where it is reported a brutal assault has been made on a logger named Pat Breman by a Frenchman. The latter is said to have beaten the former over the head with a heavy piece of wood and so seriously is the man injured that his life is despaired of. Both men are employed at the logging camp and had quarrelled over some imaginary wrong. The assailant will be brought down by the police.

AT LAST.

The municipal council are at last calling for debentures for the loan of $3000 issued under authority of the Rock Crusher by-law. It will be remembered this matter was put before the ratepayers many months ago, but ever since it passed nothing has been heard of it and it was the general opinion that the council had allowed the matter to drop into oblivion. The need of such a machine in this city is of the greatest importance, as there are so many new streets to be graded.

AGITATION FOR A HOSPITAL.

For some time past a movement has been on foot at Wellington to agitate for the erection of a hospital in that district, although it is quite apparant that the institution in this city is sufficient to meet all demands. If we take into consideration the number of patients that enter the Nanaimo hospital every year, we find that very few come from Wellington, so that if a hospital is erected in that camp it will more often be empty than otherwise. A meeting is to be held in Wellington next Thursday to discuss the matter, and it is to be hoped they will be wise enough to see that the present one is sufficient for all purposes.

LITTLE EVENTS.

Wolves are said to be very numerous around Englishmen's River, and the settlers are commencing to poison them.

Mr. S. Bryant has been appointed to the position of postmaster at Wellington in place of the Rev. Christie. The appointment has caused general satisfaction.

The anniversary of the Methodist church was a great success and the church was packed last evening by its young adherents.

TRADE DULL.

NANAIMO, Nov. 25.—Trade at present in Nanaimo appears to be near a standstill, but everyone is looking on the bright side of affairs, and the general opinion is that business will be brisk by the end of next month. The news from San Francisco has been a little more encouraging during the past few days, so that the coal trade is liable to become more brisk at any moment. At present shipping is scarce in the harbor, but as there is a large fleet at sea, it is possible a few days may see it replenished.

THE NEW JOURNAL.

Yesterday circulars were out announcing the fact of the launching of a new journal in this city. The first issue will be published next Friday week, and will be known as the Nanaimo Advertiser. The little journal will be four pages and the size 14x8 inches. It is to come out weekly, and there appears to be plenty of space for reading matter. It depends entirely upon the success the sheet meets with, but if successful the probabilities are it will be turned into a daily paper on a much larger scale.

Loss by Fire.

MARYSVILLE, Cala., Nov. 25.—Fire at 10 o'clock last night at Marcus Station, about 15 miles from this city on the Knight's Landing railroad, totally destroyed a large barn and contents, including 25 head of horses and mules, 120 tons of hay and about 80 tons of barley. A windmill was also burned. Marcus, who owned the property, estimates his loss at $4000, partly insured.

In an article headed "Riel," on Nov. 16, the National says: "Six years ago Riel paid on the scaffold the penalty of having loved his compatriots too much and of being a Roman Catholic and a French-Canadian. We now want to show that the traitors who abandoned Riel have all been punished, and that his death is fully avenged. Three French-Canadian ministers who refused to join their compatriots are now ruined. He said warrants have been issued in connection with the Whelan charges, made against Richard White of the Montreal Gazette and John P. Whelan, the contractor, charging them with criminal and seditious libel, and that the warrants will likely be served to-day. Other warrants will be issued later. Regarding the Bai des Chaleurs Railway affair, he says the reports of the Royal Commission will be handed to the Lieutenant-Governor in the course of a day or two. Premier Mercier expects that the report will exonerate his Government. He does not think the general election will take place until after the session of the Legislature.

Victoria Brains Ahead.

The son of a well known citizen of this city, who is a student at the Leland Stanford University, and who passed through the High School of Victoria, has passed perfect in the following examination, held at the University a few days ago:

1. All the perpendiculars that can be drawn to a straight line at the same point lie in a plane perpendicular to the line at the point.

2. If a plane is drawn perpendicular to the edge of a diedral angle, its intersection with the faces of the diedral angle form the plane angle of the diedral.

3. If two straight lines are intersected by three parallel planes, their corresponding segments are proportional.

4. Define polyedron, prism, parallelopiped, pyramid and frustum of a pyramid; also altitude and lateral surface (as applied to the last form), volume of a polyedron.

5. Any two rectangular parallelopipeds having equal altitudes, are to each other as their bases.

6. If a pyramid is cut by a plane parallel to its base—

1. The edges and altitude are divided proportionally;

2. The section of a polygon similar to the base;

A Singer's Illness.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—Frank Vetta, the well known operatic basso, is lying seriously ill in this city. Two physicians are almost constantly in attendance upon him. Mr. Vetta has had several severe hemorrhages within the last two or three days, and it is feared that unless his condition improves his voice will be so damaged as to cut short his operatic career. The attack is believed to have been precipated by exposure to the severe weather while playing on the western circuit. He is constantly attended by his wife, Lizzie MacNichols, the contralto.

Many women suffer in silence from the troubles peculiar to their sex rather than consult a physician. Let them try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they will no longer feel life a burden.

FONSECA RESIGNS.

The Storm Was Too Great for the Dictator to Withstand.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—News has been received from Brazil to the effect that Rio de Janeiro is in a state of open revolt against the dictator, Marshal da Fonseca, and that the people of that city are clamoring for his overthrow. Another and later dispatch from Rio de Janeiro says that Fonseca has resigned in favor of Floriano Peixotto.

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 23.—General Peixoto is forming a new government. The inhabitants of this city, whose sympathies have been with the congressional party, have at last thrown off all guise of adherence to the existing government, and have openly declared their determined opposition to the dictatorship of General Fonseca, and their resolve that he must abandon the presidency, which he has held for only a brief period. Like Dom Pedro, President da Fonseca has quietly yielded to the demand of the people that the executive of the Brazilian Government be deposed from his office. The people of this city arose in arms against the dictator's government to-day. The uprising so far has been very successful and the insurgents accomplished the ends for which they have been secretly planning.

Among the first things the revolutionists did this morning was to increase their store of arms and ammunition. A strong force made an attack on the naval arsenal, and after weak and only half-hearted efforts on the part of those stationed at the place to repulse the invaders, the latter took possession of the arsenal and all the munitions of war which it contained. Only a few shots were exchanged and the poor resistance that was made by the defenders is shown by the fact that none of the insurgent force is reported to have been killed or seriously wounded. A laborer in the arsenal was struck by a shot fired by the attacking party, and is the only one of the contestants known to have lost his life in the attack. One of the cannon balls from the arsenal was badly directed and struck a church, causing considerable damage.

News of the uprising had a very disquieting effect, and created the greatest alarm in the city among the women and children and those citizens who have not taken arms in support of either party, and when the fighting began at the arsenal and the rattle of musketry and the boom of cannon was heard, all were seized with a wild panic and fled to places of safety until the firing ceased and the conflict was at an end. Merchants and shopkeepers, fearful that their places would be looted, made haste to close their establishments and securely bolt and bar both doors and windows. All their preparations were unnecessary, however, for as already described, the attack on the arsenal was only of short duration, and beyond the smashing of parts of the buildings struck by cannon balls, no further damage was inflicted upon property and very little disorder prevailed.

Soon the people were rejoicing at the overthrow of the dictator. Members of the cabinet soon resigned and a manifesto of Fonseca announcing he would bow to the will of the people was issued. The state of siege which had been proclaimed was at once raised. It is expected that the members of the congress disolved by Fonseca will be recalled.

LONDON, Nov. 33.—Dispatches from Rio de Janeiro this afternoon bring news that the opposition to Fonseca has gathered sufficient force to break through all barriers and make itself master of the situation. All that is known is that the uprising was so formidable that Fonseca considered it impossible to maintain his ascendancy any longer and surrendered his authority. In "resigning," as he called it, he declared he did so in favor of Floriano Peixoto, the vice-president or vice-chief of the provisional government, of which Fonseca was the head. Whether the opposition will be content to allow Peixoto, about whom little is known here, to assume the leadership of state is not known, but it is believed he will not be permitted as chief executive, even temporarily, unless in sympathy with the revolutionary movement. Rio de Janeiro is in a state of great excitement, but the reports do not indicate mob law and serious disorder. The uprising, however, had the effect of putting a stop for the time being to all kinds of business. The news that Fonseca had resigned spread like wildfire through the city and was everywhere received with enthusiastic cheers and exclamations of satisfaction. The provinces have not yet been heard from, but it is believed that the news of the dictator's downfall will everywhere be received with the same satisfaction as at the capital. The revolution at Rio de Janeiro broke out only this morning, and its work is quickly accomplished.

LONDON, Nov. 24.—A dispatch from Montevideo says the news of Fonseca's resignation was received at Porto Alegre and Rio Grande do Sul with the wildest rejoicing. Bulletins signed by members of the provisional junta were issued announcing the news. At Porto Alegre the people went about embracing each other and shouting for the republic. The popular feeling is strongly against secession, and no doubt it is expected that the junta will come to a peaceful understanding that will restore Rio Grande to its place among the Brazilian states. At Rio Grande do Sul the hostile preparations were abandoned, and everybody appeared to recognize the end of the war.

The Archbishop Found Guilty.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—In the Court of Appeal to-day the Archbishop of Aix was found guilty of the charges against him, and was sentenced to pay a fine of 3000 francs and to pay the costs of the trial. It is said that after the results became known that it had been intimated to the Archbishop and his advisers if that he would write the letter of explanation published some days ago, saying he had no desire to insult M. Failleres, that the government would see the Archbishop was acquitted. It is added that it was only upon these representations that the friends of the Archbishop induced him to write the letter referred to. Now, in face of the verdict, they say that this was only a trap set for him and planned to cause him and the church further humiliation.

MURDERED FOR HIS MONEY.

No Doubt as to the Fate of the Chinaman in East Kootenay.

FORT STEELE, East Kootenay, Nov. 15.—Mr. Thomas Tethwick, the special officer sent to search for the missing Chinaman, returned and reported to Mr. Phillips, J. P., that he was unable to find any trace or information that would lead to a solution of the mystery.

Mr. Fenwick expresses regret that he was not permitted to make a longer search, as he was satisfied that he might have discovered the body of the man, or some trace that might have led to its discovery. It is now admitted by all that the unfortunate man was murdered for his money, and his body was put away in the St. Mary's Rives, or in some mining shaft on Perry Creek.

The Chinese intend appealing to the Attorney-General to have an investigation made by the Superintendent of Provincial Police or Mr. Cummings, S. M., Donald, into all the circumstances connected with the mysterious disappearance. A new hat, with a bullet hole through it, was recently found near Cranbrook, which may lead up to something. Prompt action on the part of the authorities is necessary.

The Cleveland Family.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Grover Cleveland, accompanied of course by little Ruth, will remove to Lakewood for the winter within a few days. While there is no cause whatever for alarm, it is true, nevertheless, that neither the young mother nor the child is doing as well as was hoped, and there are other reasons for a change of scene. Every day a pile of letters come to the house on Madison avenue for Mrs. Cleveland. Some of the writers ask for her photograph, some want her autograph, and some want both. At the present moment an attempt to even read the letters is simply out of the question. Her inability to attend to her unknown and numerous correspondents has worried Mrs. Cleveland greatly, and naturally Mr. Cleveland has been very much distressed by her anxiety. So it was decided that the best thing to do was to place Mrs. Cleveland and the baby in some restful retreat where she could be left alone and the child would grow strong. Lakewood, with its splendid pines, was selected. The place is at once healthy, beautiful and quiet, yet it is so near to Mr. Cleveland's office that he can come in to business every day if he desires to do so.

Republicans to Meet in Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—This city is wild with delight and excitement to-night over the announcement that Minneapolis has secured the National Republican convention. All the evening the newspaper offices were besieged with enquiries. Owing to the storm, news was slow in reaching this city. Politicians and business men, however, hung around until bulletins announcing the result were received. The news spread quickly throughout the streets, and all over town could be heard the cheers and yells of the excited populace. All classes, irrespective of politics, are enthusiastic, and all will work tooth and toe-nail to properly entertain the delegates and the crowd that will be here at the same time. From a political standpoint it is considered the most excellent thing for the city and the entire Northwest. Dissatisfaction among the grangers, the people here think, will be quelled, and all in all it will be a great thing for the Northwest, and Minneapolis in particular.

Actor Florence's Property.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—W. J. Florence, the actor, left, it is believed, a comfortable fortune to his widow. He was earning a salary of $1500 weekly with Jefferson. The family home in Park avenue is free from all incumbrances. He had an insurance of $15,000 on his life. The profits from "The Mighty Dollar" alone were supposed to be $500,000. His brother, Inspector Conlin, said yesterday that Mr. Florence's brothers and sisters do not claim any part of the estate, but will leave it all to the widow, although the actor died without a will.

Governor Hovey Dead.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—General Alvin P. Hovey, governor of Indiana, died this afternoon at 1 o'clock of heart failure. About three weeks ago Governor Hovey started on a pleasure trip through the west and Mexico. When the trip was about half completed the governor was taken suddenly ill and had to return home.

The Washington Speakership.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The Herald's Washington special says: Bynum retired from the speakership fight last night. McMillan will be the next to go. He may not go out until after the balloting has begun, but when he does it will be to declare for Mr. Mills, and if possible throw his influence and the votes of his followers to the Texas applicant for the speakership. The Crisp men got wind of this late to-day, and there was immediately a gathering of the Crisp forces. The action of Bynum and its effect had alarmed them, but the expected action of McMillan alarmed them still more. While they were holding this council of war an ambassador arrived at the Metropolitan. He came from the New England. He told them it had been decided that the New England delegation would vote solidly for Mills. They held a meeting last August, and before anyone had expressed a preference decided to vote solidly for one man for speaker, that man to be determined by a majority of votes. On a vote yesterday they found that man was Mills. This was anything but re-assuring to the Crisp faction. It was evident that something had to be done. After a lengthy conference it was decided to if possible effect an alliance, offensive and defensive, with Representative Springer. The Illinois man was approached and I am told readily agreed to the proposition. The understanding is that if after the second or third ballot either candidate shows such strength as to clearly demonstrate that one can win and the other cannot, there will be a combination made.

THE TORONTO.

Of all the stores for genuine tea
Toronto leads by one, two, three.
The coffee next in this great store—
It stands A 1, and two, three four.
Next comes everything you eat—
Superior all—a perfect treat.
The prices low. Then purchase here;
Of imposition never fear.
There's not a store this side the Sound
That boasts such goods, take all around.
It matters not what you require,
It's right there at your heart's desire.
If you've but little time to spare,
The car for five cents takes you there,
And you will prove tho' small's the fee
You've saved in profits three times three.
Without one bit exaggeration
The store's the best throughout the nation.
Then don't forget to come for to go
To the well-known store—the TORONTO.

ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES.

Yesterday Mr. Justice Crease rather severely animadverted on the fact that witnesses were not in attendance at the Assizes and asked who was responsible, when the Attorney-General replied that there seemed to be some misunderstanding about the matter, and that there were two police bodies, the provincial and city. Mr. Justice Crease then called for Supt. Sheppard, and that officer not being present, is reported to have said to City Police Officer Smith, "Will you be good enough to convey to the Chief of Police this message—that it will go ill with him if he does not take care that the witnesses are in attendance on the jury." We have always been under the impression, and our views are endorsed by high legal authority, that the Crown is the responsible party in the case of witnesses and prisoners in Assize matters. Just how Supt. Sheppard can be considered a Crown officer or take the custody of witnesses is not clear. The Crown is represented by the Attorney-General's Department, which is supposed to have officers of its own for such purposes. At all events, there should be no divided responsibility in the matter, for therein lies a sure cause of confusion.

FARMERS AND MARKETS.

Mr. L. C. Agassiz, who resides at Agassiz on the Mainland, has written to the Colonist stating that he failed to find a market for some beef cattle and hogs with a Vancouver firm of butchers, who informed him that they were overstocked with animals of both kinds. As Victoria dealers have been lately scouring the Mainland districts for beef cattle, Mr. Agassiz should not want for a market very long, always provided that his cattle are in fair condition and he does not demand a prohibitory price. There may not be a "beef famine" in Victoria, but the demand for cattle is quite brisk enough and the price high enough to satisfy any reasonable farmer or rancher. There was not the slightest need of placing an embargo on American cattle in order to encourage stock-raising in this Province, and as it was not needed for purely quarantine purposes, the enforcement of the Order-in-Council is utterly without justification. The British Columbia Commercial Journal, though a strong advocate of protection, speaks as follows on this quarantine outrage:—

So long as we are not producers of all the articles that we require, the more of them we obtain from the sister provinces the better, as it induces a greater feeling of interdependence and mutual relation. Still we are not for a moment prepared to quietly allow ourselves to be sat upon by the Calgary and Northwest provinces, and forced into buying their cattle at their own exorbitant figures, by means of Orders-in-Council obtained from the Ottawa authorities, on what some have declared to be false representations. The thinness of the device is too transparent.

We are not allowed to import live stock for butchering purposes and slaughter them on landing, but must, forsooth, have them kept for some months in quarantine, eating their heads off; while, in addition, the Government have not provided anything for the purpose in the shape of a cattle quarantine station. In the Mother Country places are provided at certain seaports at which cattle from countries whose animals are not allowed to be taken into the interior alive are at once slaughtered; but, for us here, there is nothing of the kind, an iniquitous and infamous Order-in-Council obtaining, which places us entirely at the mercy of the Northwest graziers.

In the same article the Journal remarks that eastern eggs have come this way in increased numbers recently. At the present time fresh eggs in the Victoria market cost the consumer 75 cents per dozen, and one may well wonder why it is that British Columbia farmers do not take advantage of so fine an opportunity to make money. Fresh butter is correspondingly dear. In short, there is a brisk market for everything the farmer or rancher can raise, and yet we hear all sorts of palaver about the need of "encouragement" by such iniquitous measures as the quarantine.

In regard to the farmer's position, two illustrative incidents may be quoted. A gentleman from this city was lately entertained by a Saanich farmer, and on the dinner table appeared what the guest had no difficulty in recognizing as "store" butter. The farmer's place is well adapted for stock and dairy purposes, but he found it easier to purchase in the city butter that had been manufactured perchance in Manitoba than to embark in dairy operations himself. On another occasion a city man called at a farmer's house within easy reach of Victoria, and on asking for a drink of milk was supplied with a diluted modicum of condensed milk, which had probably been imported from Nova Scotia. There were plenty of cows on the place, but the trouble of milking, even for home consumption, was too great. We do not say that all farmers in this Province are equally lacking in enterprise, but there are too many of them of this kind. It is not "encouragement" but "snap" that some of our farmers want.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Globe's Ottawa correspondent says the indications are that the whole proceedings against Thos. McGreevy and the Connolly brothers will be abandoned, as Uncle Thomas threatens to make exposures which will wreck the Tory party completely if the prosecution is pushed any further. If there had been anything earnest about the prosecution the Connolly books would not have been allowed to disappear across the border.

The Halifax people are very much disquieted over the question of the Atlantic mail service. The Board of Trade of that city has passed a resolution protesting against the action of the Government in paying the Allan steamer a subsidy to carry Canadian mails from Portland instead of Halifax, as heretofore, and submitting that whatever extra payment is required to secure the mails being landed here should be given by the Government in justice to the interests of the Maritime Provinces. The Board also protested against the prevailing west bound sugar rates on the Intercolonial Railway, which discriminate against Halifax and in favor of St. John, and which have had the effect to destroy the once flourishing raw sugar trade of Halifax. The discrimination against Halifax is forty cents per ton on the Intercolonial between Halifax and Montreal. The people of Halifax are finding out by hard experience the value of Conservative Government promises.

The commission appointed by the Abbott Government to enquire into the working of the civil service seems to have plenty of power conferred on it. According to an Ottawa dispatch it is authorized to enquire into and report upon the matter of appointments, promotions, discipline and duties, including hours and extent of service and absence, salaries and superannuation of members of the service. In investigating the departments the commissioners will enquire into their organization and allotment of duties, efficiency and sufficiency of staff, supervision, financial and business departments, system of purchase and performance of extra work. This is, of course, but a general outline of the duties imposed on the commissioners, who will in reality be competent to investigate anything in connection with the service that in their opinion would be better reformed. The investigation covers all departments as well as the staff of the Senate and Commons. The commissioners are given power to summon witnesses to give evidence under oath. The allowance to Courtney and Judge Burbidge is $8 a day. Hague and Barbeau and the secretary are allowed $10 a day. The Government should have been able to overhaul the civil service itself and save the country from the heavy expenses of this commission.

THE STOCK QUESTION.

TO THE EDITOR:—In this morning's Colonist there appears a letter from Mr. L. C. Agassiz, complaining about one firm in Vancouver refusing to buy his cattle and hogs. In the first place, I would like to ask Mr. L. C. A. what price he asked for his cattle. May be the price he asked was so exorbitant that they thought that was the easiest way of answering him. Or it maybe that they knew what condition his cattle were in, probably not fit to make beef, as is often the case with ranchers trying to sell cattle. The beasts may look fat to them, but when a butcher gets his eye on them, why that is a different thing. Again, the firm in question may have a contract with some syndicate to supply them with cattle for a given time, making it impossible for them to buy on the outside. I should like to know why Mr. L. C. A. writes to the newspapers about the Island butcher, because one Mainland firm has refused to buy his cattle. I have not the least doubt that if he brought his cattle down to the Island he would find a ready sale for them—that is if they were good beef.

The quarantine law enforcement on the Mainland and the Island is quite a different thing, because the Mainland butchers can bring a car-load of dressed beef to their shop doors and use it out of the car as they want it. It is not so with the Island butchers, as it is imperative that they bring live cattle, because handling dressed beef after it is taken out of the refrigerator cars renders it unfit for sale. No stock man cares to bring live cattle over the mountains in the winter months, as he is liable to lose a great many on account of blockades. The British Columbia beef is not fit to use in the winter months, and if an inspector is wanted I think the authorities ought to appoint one to inspect what comes from British Columbia, for the most of it that comes here in the winter and spring is unfit for use, as the people on the Island know well by this time and judging from the amount of dentists doing business here. Another expense that the Island butchers have is freight, as you can bring five times the number of dressed cattle in a car that can be brought alive, besides there being no risk handling dressed beef. There is also the extra steamboat freight from the Mainland here, which is three times the amount charged by steamboats from Tacoma. ISLANDER.

VICTORIA, Nov. 24.

MR. RUDGE?

TO THE EDITOR: I have to-day endeavored to see your correspondent, and have failed to find his address—much less his name—in either local or university directories, although he styles himself "M. A." All graduates in British Coldmbia are registered members of convocation, and this "M. A." is not recorded. There is not even a Barnaby Rudge in the city, although the M. A. Rudge (?) writes like the famous representative of our Charles Dickens. M. A., T. C. D.

THE EVANGELISTS.

Another Crowded Meeting—Mr. Crossley's Song Sermon.

Although rain fell persistently during the whole evening, last night's meeting of the Evangelists was quite as fully attended as on previous occasions, and at at 8 o'clock the service commenced in the usual way. Mr. Hunter's reading and exposition of the 34th psalm was listened to with deep interest.

The song sermon of Mr. Crossley was a new feature to Victoria audiences, and was enjoyed by every one present. He took for his subject "Paul one of the greatest men that ever lived." He spoke of Paul's fortitude and patient cheerfulness under great privations and persecutions, his abiding confidence in God, and in the result of his life work. He looked inward at his heart, and had the assurance of salvation. We often find people saying "I think I am saved," or "I hope so," but the teachings of the apostles tell us plainly that we can have the assurance of life eternal if we have accepted His offer. Paul looked backward at his life and said: "I have finished my course." A man can never live a life above his ideal. Have an ideal in life, and make it like Paul's, to begin and continue the race for the prize of the high calling of God. Paul took a third view; he looked forward to his death, saying "The time of my departure is at hand." It had no terrors for him; he was always ready. Death is to the Christian simply a passing over the threshold of life into the glory beyond; its sorrowfulness lies only in our own loss of the loved ones gone. Paul looked upward to his reward. "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of glory;" he saw a crown not only for himself but also for all them that love his appearing.

The various points in the address were strengthened by appropriate songs, which did much to deepen the interest of the audience.

After singing "Almost Persuaded," Mr. Hunter again spoke, urging them to decide at once. Almost everybody thinks that at some time he or she will be a Christian, then why delay? It is dangerous. Not only so, it is mean in any one to refuse the offered salvation, which cost the Son of God so much to purchase.

An appropriate and enjoyable item was the singing by Mr. Crossley of Longfellow's beautiful song "A Rainy Day."

The meeting will be held in the same place to-night at 8 o'clock. On Thursday afternoon there will be a Bible reading in the Y.M.C.A. rooms for one hour at 3 o'clock.

They Feel Thankful.

Jury duty is an unthankful job, and newspaper men, firemen, officers of the crown, and others exempt by law, feel thankful these days that they are not obliged to serve in the capacity of deciders in criminal cases.

Perhaps a Mistake.

At the Greer sympathy meeting held at Vancouver on Saturday evening, a collection was taken up. In it was found a one cent piece. The Telegram, speaking of the fact, says sarcastically that the giver evidently thought the coin was a $5 gold piece.

Strange Phenomena.

On Sunday morning, says the Vancouver News-Advertiser, a peculiar illumination was seen in the sky shortly after daybreak by some of those who were up that early. A ball of fire with two wings to it was seen to move across the sky slightly to the southward of the zenith, from west to east, and for a few seconds there was a brighter light than before or after.

Evidently the quality of Vancouver whiskey is of the hallucination-producing sort.

Stevedores Strike at Tacoma.

The Upton line steamship Sussex came to Tacoma on Monday from Portland to finish out a cargo of flour for China, but the stevedores refused to work on her after 6 o'clock at night without an advance of 45 cents per hour. Agent Harmon, of the Union Pacific, acting for the Seattle agent of the Upton line, was without authority to meet the demands, and therefore the Sussex was delayed. It is a new move on the part of the stevedores and creates comment among shippers.

A Sample of Eastern News.

The following dispatch to the Winnipeg Free Press from Ottawa will be news to parties interested:—

"The fisheries protection schooner Agnes McDonald, purchased by persons interested in the sealing industry, and to be in Behring Sea next year, has been wrecked off Vancouver Island and four persons drowned."

How such items can obtain a start is hard to imagine. The Agnes McDonald only left Halifax for this port a few days ago, and is not expected here for four months yet.

Pure Air and Sermons.

An American gentleman, speaking to a reporter to-day, said that the ventilation of some of the Victoria churches was very defective. So much so, in fact, that to sit out a sermon gave himself and family very severe headaches. He says that the janitor shuts every window and door after morning service, so as to carefully preserve the foul air for the evening, or at least it appears so to him. He says he delights to hear a good sermon, but has an abhorrence to impure air. He things the first should be accompanied by the second, in order to fully appreciate the weight of the remarks. Ventilation of public buildings is, to his mind, of vast importance.

For the South.

The steamer Walla Walla sailed for the south this morning with the following cabin passengers from this port for San Francisco: C. P. Shepherd, Thos. Hopkins, Miss M. Scott, Jno. Williams, D. H. Green, Mrs. Miles, T. R. Dougall, D. Doig, C. McLachlan, R. Johnson, T. Thomas, L. Vigelieus and wife, Miss Craven and Miss Blum.

Dauntless Lodge.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the above lodge was held in the Temperance Hall, Esquimalt, Bro. Robt. N. Filton, N. G., presiding. Six were initiated into the mysteries of Oddfellowship, after which several short speeches were delivered by visiting brethren and others. There being a large attendance, the utmost enthusiasm was manifested for the success of the lodge.

Have You a Boy?

A golden opportunity is now offered to those having boys between the age of seven and twelve years. As an exceptionally fine range of boys sample suits in Scotch, English and Canadian tweeds, and from the fact that they are samples are particularly well made and neatly finished. One hundred suits to select from, ranging from $3 to $6.50, and are marked within a very small margin of the manufacturer's price. Samuel Reid, 122 Government street, between Yates and Johnson streets.

Profitable Coal Carrying.

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer's account of the wreck of the steamer San Pedro, in the same words used by the Colonist scribe, mentions that the vessel had in the nine years she had been in the coal trade earned $9,000,000 for her owners. At this rate coal carrying must be a pretty profitable business, and beats sealing all to pieces. The San Pedro must have got very high rates for her freight, or the writer of the news must have thrown in an extra handful of cyphers when he penned that part of the item. Probably the latter is the correct reason, for to earn the sum of money credited to the San Pedro in nine years' coal carrying would require a fleet of 36 steamers in constant work, assuming that the net profits on coal carrying to be 30 cents a ton, which is a high figure.

Alaskan Officials.

Some time ago this paper published a statement made by the captain of the schooner Ethel relative to the drunken habits of Judge Bugbee, of Sitka. It is now stated at Port Townsend that S. A. Plumley, candidate for United States judge at Alaska, arrived there Monday from Minneapolis. Plumley has the indorsements of the delegation from Washington, Oregon and Minnesota. Bugbee, the present judge of Alaska, has been asked by the President to resign on account of charges of drunkenness and gross habits of immorality with Indian women at Sitka. There are several serious charges against Bugbee. United States Judge William Morrow, of California, is Bugbee's principal supporter. Indications are that Bugbee's successor will be appointed as soon as Congress meets, and Alaska affairs will be generally overhauled on account of numerous irregularities. Governor Knapp will also doubtless have to go.

THE ASSIZE COURT.

Sako, Wilson and Lee Found Guilty—Other Cases in Progress.

The case of Reg. vs. Davies larceny, was in progress at the assize court yesterday afternoon when the TIMES went to press. The jury brought in a verdict of "guilty."

REG. VS. WILSON AND LEE.

The court was cleared of spectators when this case was called, only court officials, witnesses, jurors and representatives of the press being allowed to remain. The evidence for the prosecution was straightforward, whereas the witnesses for the defence knew nothing of the case. His Lordship directed the jury, who brought in a verdict of "guilty" after being out a few minutes.

REG. VS. ROSS.

The defendant in this case was charged with larceny. The evidence was the same as was produced in the police court, and a verdict of "not guilty" brought in.

REG. VS. SAKO.

The first case called this morning before Mr. Justice Crease was that of Reg. vs. Sako, larceny. The Attorney-General appeared for the prosecution and Mr. J. P. Walls for the defence. The jury chosen was J. J. Auld (foreman), Wm. Bull, A. H. Bridgman, J. M. Murdock, Jno. Calvert, H. J. Martin, N. E. Cleveland, J. M. Hughes, D. McCarthy, W. T. Williams, R. Sellick. A number of witnesses (those called in the Police Court) were produced and gave the same evidence as that given before.

After having been out for a short time, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

REG. VS. BENNETT.

Sir M. B. Begbie presided in one of the Supreme Court rooms to dispose of some of the cases before the Assize Court. The first case called was that of Reg. vs. Bennett, obtaining money under false pretences. Mr. Smith represented the crown and Mr. L. Crease the defendant. The jury was as follows: J. Walsh (foreman), T. G. Wood, H. Daslo, Jno. Sylva, J. H. Warner, A. A. Elliott, A. Townsley, S. Norman, A. Lee, D. Robinson, Jno. Gillerston, Jas. Caldwell.

John B. Jones deposed that on the 18th of August Bennett came to him and asked him for $100. He gave Bennett $100 on a note purporting to be signed by Jos. Bayley. He (witness) tried to cash the note, when he was told that the note was no good.

To Mr. Crease—Mrs. Bayley did not say that the signature was not her husband's.

Joseph Bayley deposed that Bennett came to him and said he thought he could sell witnesses property. He never sold the property and did not earn any commission. He did not owe Bennett any money. He swore that the signature on the note was not his writing. He did not believe that he had ever given an order for money since he had been in Victoria. He had never given an order to Bennett. He signed a document in Mr. Peacock's office on a Sunday, but could not swear that the one produced was the one he signed. He could not swear that it was his signature on the document.

Several other witnesses were called and gave similar evidence to that given at the police court, the only new witness being the assistant accountant of the Bank of British Columbia. He knew Bayley's signature. The one on the disputed note was not Bayley's. This closed the case for the prosecution, and the court adjourned for lunch.

A verdict of not guilty was brought in about 4 o'clock.

REG. VS. MORGAN.

The case of Morgan, charged with obtaining money under false pretences, was called just before the court adjourned, and the case proceeded this afternoon. The jury was as follows: W. T. Williams (foreman), H. Hounslow, R. Sellick, A. Neil, Jas. S. Roland, C. Sainse, S. R. Chester, H. A. Sutherland, Jas. L. Crimp, G. A. Richardson, Jno. Wear and H. J. Martin. The Attorney-General appeared for the crown. The prisoner was not represented.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION.

Evidence Given by the City on the Gravel Pit Question at Yesterday's Sitting.

The Royal Commission resumed its sitting yesterday morning, when the evidence in rebuttal on the gravel pit question was heard. The witnesses heard were the mayor, city surveyor, street commissioner and Mr. George Stelley.

Mr. Stelley, a contractor of about 30 years' standing, had looked over the gravel pits when they were for sale and decided not to buy. He didn't see any gain in buying gravel for which he would get about two bits a load and then be at double the cost to fill up the hole. Mr. Stelley gave evidence about the quality and price of gravel, and stated it as his opinion that the sale was a good one for the city.

Mr. Grant also gave evidence as to the working of the gravel pits. During the past year or so, however, the city had gradually been discontinuing the use of gravel on the streets and had substituted macadam. The city, where gravel was used, had let the work by contract, the contractor furnishing his own gravel. This was found to pay better. He disapproved of a gravel pit within the city limits at all; it was not a desirable thing near one's property. All those who bought property he thought would build on it, and he was not of opinion that the lot holders wanted to make so many gravel pits. As a matter of fact the taxes alone that will be derived from the property, irrespective of the sum obtained for it, will more than pay annually for the gravel required by the city. Mr. Grant, in cross-examination, defended the action of the city in employing Mr. Davies to assist the city surveyor in the sale of the gravel pits.

Mr. Leech, the city surveyor, also testified that the city was using less gravel now than formerly. In fact, if his opinions were followed, there would be none at all used. He thought the city did well in getting rid of the gravel pits at such a price.

Mr. Lynn, the street commissioner, gave evidence to the same effect. That gravel used on streets, even only for "blinding" the macadam, was undesirable, and said the best engineering authorities were discountenancing its use.

This closed the case on both sides on the gravel pits question, and Mr. Bodwell took up the charge of excessive expenditure. He contended that the council had no power to incur any expenditure in excess of the revenue for the current year. This, however, the council for 1888 had done to the extent of $27,000; 1889 to $20,000, and 1890 to $60,000, while for the present year there was an estimated shortage of $92,000 odd.

The court here rose and stands adjourned till Friday morning.

UMBRELLAS BY THE YEAR.

And a Man Need Carry One Only When It Is Raining.

The four drummers were playing whist on the Shore line train. While one of them was shuffling the cards, says the Boston Herald, another took from the corner of the seat a very stylish-looking umbrella and placed it in the rack overhead.

"That's a good-looking piece of silk," said the man who was shuffling, as he glanced at the umbrella. "Cost about a saw horse?"

The owner of the water shed smiled and replied: "It costs me just three dollars a year to carry that umbrella. Haven't you fellows tumbled to the new racket? There is a company just organized in New York which provides a man with umbrellas for the rest of his natural life for the consideration of three dollars a year. The company puts its umbrellas into the hotels and news stands. Every umbrella bears the company's stamp. When a man joins the association he pays three dollars and gets a check good for one year. He puts his check in his pocket and starts out. If he gets caught in a shower in Skowhegan he merely goes over to a hotel, delivers his check and gets an umbrella.

"If the rain continues, as it usually does in Maine, he takes the umbrella with him until he fetches up, we'll say, here at the Crocker house in New London. There he leaves the umbrella and gets a check again. Of course, if he loses the umbrella he is out three dollars; but that is a good deal less than a good umbrella costs, and he can join the combination again by paying another three dollars. I tell you it's a great scheme, for it keeps a man all the time supplied with an umbrella and obliges him to carry it only when he wants it. And the company will make plenty of money, too, for if a man leaves one of the umbrellas anywhere whoever finds it will see the stamp and in nine cases out of ten will return it to one of the company's offices."

"Somebody will be starting a company to supply drummers with drinks at so much a year," said one of the other men as he picked up his hand, "but nobody but the commission men could afford to go into that. What's trumps?"

SIMPSON'S MULE.

The Latest Campaign Story of the Kansas Statesman.

One of the best stories of the year is told by Jerry Simpson, popularly known as the "Sockless Socrates of Medicine Lodge." He had been talking about the attempt of the old parties to capture the alliance vote, when he compared the astute politician to the Kansas mule, says the Atlanta Constitution.

"Out in Kansas," said he, "there is a boy who had taught his mule to squat when he touched him on the flank with his heels, and one day when he was riding beside an Englishman the mule sat down on his haunches. 'What's the matter with your mule?' said the Englishman. 'Why,' said the boy, 'he's a setter; don't you see that rabbit out there?' The Englishman was much astonished. They rode on awhile and the mule squatted again. 'What's he doing now?' said the Englishman. 'He's settin' agin,' said the boy. 'Don't you see that flock of quail?' By this time the Englishman was dying to own the mule. An animal he could ride that was also a setter would be priceless to such a nimrod as he. He offered to buy the mule, but the boy didn't want to sell him. Finally he concluded to swap he mule for the Englishman's fine bay horse and one hundred dollars to boot. The Englishman mounted the mule, the boy mounted the horse and they rode on. After awhile they came to a creek and the Englishman drew up his feet to keep them from getting wet. About half way through, the water got so deep he had to draw his feet up to the mule's flank. As soon as the boot heels touched the mule's flank he squatted right in the middle of the creek. 'What's the matter with your biarsted mule now?' said the Englishman. 'I told you he was a setter and he's just as good for suckers as for anything else.'"

Having a Good Time.

Queer ideas some people have as to what constitutes a good time. I heard a young man telling another over a restaurant table of his plans for a summer vacation of two weeks. He gave an invoice of his clothes, confessed that he had borrowed a diamond ring of a friend and that after paying steamboat fares he would have about eighty dollars to spend for board and other luxuries. "Don't you see," he continued, "I'm pretty well togged, and am going where no one knows me, so that I can swell around quite a bit for ten or twelve days. May find some one who'll think I own a summer residence and steam yacht of my own. I tell you I'm going to have a great time!"

WATERMELON REVIVALS.

An Interesting Religious Event in the South.

Singular Effects of the Fruit Season on Colored Help—White Folks Left to Their Own Resources.

This town is in the midst of one of the most successful watermelon revivals ever known in the south, says a Green Cove Springs (Fla.) correspondent of the New York Sun in a recent letter. The unusual fervor of excitement is said to be the result of the exceptionally fine melon crop, which in quality and quantity surpasses anything seen here in recent years. The revival began three weeks ago, as soon as the quality of the luscious yield had been proved by eating, and it is now at its height. As a consequence household operations are at a complete standstill and business of every kind is seriously interfered with.

The watermelon revival is a citro-religious event of annual recurrence in the melon-growing regions of the far south. It lays hold of the colored people only and gets its strongest grip on the sisters, but in a temporal way it affects the white residents hardly less powerfully. Throughout the melon season the colored sisters and a majority of the brethren entirely give themselves up to the exqaisite pleasure of the melon and the not less religious pain of religious conviction that precedes the ecstacy of conversion, which in turn leads quickly to exaltation and a comatose condition. This latter condition is, next to Heaven, the end sought for; but because of the duration of these trances or subjugation to "the power," as it is called here, many of the sisters are in the present instance failing to assimilate all of their share of this season's melon crop. Thus Mrs. Kirkpatrick's cook lay in a trance for several days, and neither cooked nor ate, and this was when the melons were at their very best. Mrs. Buddington's colored maid was brought home in a dray at two o'clock in the morning and deposited on the kitchen floor, where she lay rigid and with "eyes sot," as this manifestation is termed, until at the end of three days Mrs. Buddington had her carted back to the church in which she "got the power." Mr. Butler's cook got religion and rigidity early in the revival, and the task of finding a substitute being manifestly hopeless the family at once made arrangements to take their meals with a family in the same street who are not dependent on colored servants.

The industry that is doing nearly all the flourishing in the present crisis is that of the few worldly minded negroe who own a mule and cart. Business is brisk for these just now from the hour when the full moon shows above the further cypress-bordered shore of th St. Johns until the yellow disk fuses in the yellow sky of a midsummer morning. All of the colored churches are open twenty-four hours a day—in the daytime for such as attain satiety of melons early and are prepared for the religious influences long before nightfall; throughout the night for all who come. Many who come to scoff remain to be carted away, and those who have religion get it again and likewise have need of the mule cart. So this teaming of precious and rigid human freight begins early in the evening, and goes on until the bull-bats cease their pursuit of nocturnal bugs.

The white residents are so seriously affected by the melon revival, in consequence of the impossibility of getting any service done by the colored sisters, that some of them do not hesitate to speak impatiently of the whole business and declare that those who get the most religion also collar the most melons from the white man's patch; and now and then a sister who has seen many melon revivals, and is thus prepared to take a conservative view of the situation, replies: "Well, I 'spects that's so." All of the white residents are looking forward somewhat impatiently to the closing of the melon season and the synchronous competition of the religious work; not because they mind the loss of a few melons, but because they greatly need the services of those who at all times, barring this period of annual occurrence, are faithful and valued servants.

A Colored Claquer.

One of the Washington theaters enjoys the destinction of having a professional claquer on its roll of employes. He is a negro of athletic build, says the New York World, with an extremely dark skin and enormous mouth, and a fine set of shining ivories. But his most notable characteristic is his laugh. It is by turns soft, resonant, harsh, strident and mellow. He is in his place in the top gallery throughout a summer season of light opera, and he never misses a farce-comedy or a minstrel show. He always knows when and how to laugh. He sits with his chin on the rail and enjoys himself in a highly infectious fashion, the audience frequently laughing more heartily at him than at the performance. A clever touch of comedy will provoke an appreciative chuckle, a good joke elicits a hearty guffaw, while a fine sample of "stuffed club" humor fairly convulses him. After each performance he stops at the box-office and collects his salary of twenty-five cents a night.

Chinamen as Fruit Handlers.

California grape growers are said to be feeling the stoppage of Chinese immigration severely. There has been a constant drift eastward of the Chinese from California, until now there are not enough left to do the work required of them. In some industries white labor can be substituted, but among the grape-growers this is not possible, as Irishmen cannot do the work that Chinamen have hitherto performed. No one can realize, unless he has had actual experience, how delicately the Celestials handle fruit and how roughly it is treated by whites. In shipping grapes, out of forty boxes packed by Chinamen only one on an average is injured, while one out of twelve is spoiled by white handling.

THE DUNCE ALL RIGHT.

Time Brings Compensation to the Youth Who Was at the Foot of the Class.

When the luckless West Point cadet who brought up the rear of the graduating class appeared before Secretary Proctor for his diploma that dignitary first disconcerted him with a fixed and strong gaze, then reassured him with the kindly remark:

"Well, young gentleman, the officer who holds the left of the line has sometimes great opportunities."

The man who holds the last place in the graduating class to-day is a general object of commiseration, says the Chicago Mail. At him the shafts of wit are leveled, and the scornful glances of the faculty directed. Not for him is the glory of pronouncing impassioned eulogies upon the great men of the past. The hackneyed pathos of the valedictory, and the labored joyousness of the salutatory, do not engage his sluggish and uninspired pen.

While the shining class have been industriously cribbing the great thoughts of great authors for incorporation in their own genius-born orations, he has, perchance, been inventing new and improved methods of applying the surreptitious "pony" to the passage of examinations, or making topographical surveys of the college town for the means of discovering a line of retreat to the railway station uninfested with creditors, and free from the presence of diseased college windows. Commencement week is a very sorry time for the "tail-enders."

But somehow, after describing the classic precincts of alma mater, he is surprised to discover that not only does the heedless world know not that he lagged superfluous at a class end, but that nobody cares whether he ever saw a college at all. This is a surprise to him, but a veritable shock to the valedictorians, "honor men," and other shining lights of the college, who expect to be greeted with effusion by a world eager for oratory and crying loud for prize poems in Alexandrine meter.

Here is where the dunce finds his advantage. Encouraged by the fact that no one seems to care about his college record he braces up. The "honor man" on the contrary, disgusted by the lack of appreciation of the vulgar world, loses heart. The result is that the commencement day question: "What is to become of the dunces who bring up the rear?" is replaced in class reunions twenty-five years later by the surprised inquiry: "What the dickens became of the valedictorian?" Life and time bring their compensations as surely as the night brings out the stars.

"OLD GLORY" IN AFRICA.

Wild Animals of the Jungle Wearing the Stars and Stripes.

A private letter from a member of the Dunlevy-Hotchkiss expedition, on the upper Congo, recently received in this city, says the San Francisco Examiner, contained the following unique incident:

"We were dozing through our midday siesta yesterday, July 4, when we heard the approaching tread of a herd of large animals. Whitson, who is also an American and a veteran of the war, said: 'That sounds almost like a troop of cavalry charging, does it not?'

"'Yes,' I replied; 'it would hardly surprise me to see the regiment's flag burst out from the edge of the wood there.'

"You may imagine our stupefaction when this very thing happened. A tattered American flag came streaming through the bushes of this remote African jungle, and its bearer halted for a moment, with his companions, directly in front of our camp. The colors were attached to the mane of a huge giraffe, whose towering neck bore its frayed remnants aloft like a flagstaff. One of our Zulu bearers informed us that Stanley, near three years ago, had thus decorated five of these animals, caught in a corral, and turned them loose again—his object being to mystify the Wambesi, who regarded him as a powerful medicine man or sorcerer."

A QUEER BUSINESS.

An Englishwoman Who Sold Birch Rods for Boys.

A great English editor, Mr. Henry Labouchere, tells of an advertisement that appeared recently in one of the London papers, which read as follows:

BIRCH RODS—Small and handy, 1s., by post. Well packed. IDA WESTON, care of Mrs. Taylor, 8 Hawthorn terrace, Canterbury.

This was such a strange advertisement, says Harper's Young People, that Mr. Labouchere thought he would inquire into it, and so he sent to Miss Weston a note requesting her to send him a birch rod as advertised, and enclosing the necessary shilling. Shortly the rod arrived, and with it a note from Miss Weston to this effect:

"Miss Weston incloses one rod herewith. It must be steeped in water to restore its suppleness, and the handle may be wrapped in ribbon. Miss Weston advertises at a loss, but with a view to restore the rod and reform the present 'untamed' race of English boys and girls."

Just think of it! Making a regular business of selling birch rods to make boys better. How would the boys of this country like that, and would they agree with my informant that this lady is engaged in a great and glorious work?

I am afraid not, and I am further not afraid to say that the modern boys who stand in need of the rod are like angels' visits, few and far between.

A Fortunate Dream.

An engineer on a railroad train in North Carolina dreamed that a large rock had fallen on the track near Leatherwood creek and that the engine had been smashed by collision with it. The dream so impressed him that he determed to make his usual trip over the road in the morning until he had telegraphed to ascertain if there was anything the matter at Leatherwood creek. An answer was flashed back that a huge rock had fallen on the track within a few feet of the identical place dreamed about, and that, although hands had been working for hours to remove it, the track was still obstructed.

AN AMERICAN TRAVELER

One Who Never Paid Anything for Transportation.

He Had Eaten at the Expense of Many of the Leading Hotels Throughout the Country—His Trick on a Railway Official.

He is a great traveler, says the Nashville American.

There is a man in Nashville who has traveled the length and breadth of the United States, from Maine to Mexico, from New York to San Francisco, and did not pay a dime for his passage, and he rode half the way in a first-class passenger coach, the other half in box cars as "blind baggage."

At present this distinguished traveler is registered at the work house.

Everybody in Nashville knows him, especially the policemen. A reporter called on the traveler recently and found him in a mood to recite various reminiscences, some of them of thrilling interest.

"I reckon," said he, "I am about as well known in the big cities of the country as the president, and when the authorities of the place hear I am coming on a visit they receive me with open arms, although they don't have a brass band to play martial music and have me ride in a carriage. The mayor doesn't make a speech of welcome, but the address of the police judge is impressive when he scowls at me and jerks out: 'Thirty days on the rock pile.'

"There's a secret in getting about the country on your face, and even when it's known some fellows haven't sense enough to work the racket. Every time I leave Nashville I rig up in a new suit, and get a pass to some town about forty or fifty miles away. I never fall in with a crowd of bums, for it's always best to travel by yourself.

"When I start from one town to another I generally strike the cannon-ball trains and find out what kind of a crew they carry. If it's a good set of men I ride between the mail-car and tender. If the trainmen are 'tough' on a fellow I crawl up under the trucks and hang on, or sometimes I get on top of a passenger coach and lie down by the lights. Riding the trucks is dangerous, and if a fellow don't know how it's done he's a goner. You have to cramp yourself up in a peculiar position, hold your feet up and never move during the ride. Sometimes I ride the brake-rods. That's the easiest and safest way to travel when you're out on the beat. I get a plank with a nail in each end, so it won't slip, put it under the rod and straddle it. When I get in the passenger coach I put up a pitiful tale about being an unfortunate railroad man and having lost my papers, and I generally get my ride.

"I made fifty dollars once, and it was the easiest money that ever came into my hands. Maj. Clarfee was the passenger agent of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road, and I went to him in Fort Worth, told him I was an unfortunate and I wanted to get out of town. He gave me a pass to some point about thirty miles up the road and I left that night. When I went into the coach who should I see but Maj. Clarfee. He motioned for me to have a seat by him, and commenced asking about me and how I managed to get about. 'Why, major,' I said, 'I have traveled over your road a thousand times and never paid a cent or had a pass, nor beat my way.' At this the old man pricked up his ears, for he thought he would catch some one of his conductors at some underhand trick.

"'How do you do it?' the major asked me.

"'That's a secret,' said I.

"'I'll give you twenty dollars to put me on to it.'

"'Make it fifty,' said I.

"'Done,' and he passed over the money.

"'Well, major, I walk.'

"He saw I had him and he didn't kick, but he cocked his eye and looked at me a long time. When I get hungry I go to the biggest hotel in the city, give the clerk a pitiful song and dance and I get a square meal. Sometimes they take me up in the dining-room, and sometimes they give me a hand-out. I have eaten at the Palmer house in Chicago, at the Ponce de Leon in St. Augustine, at the Fifth Avenue in New York, and, in fact, the finest hotels in the country on that scheme.

"The life is a checkered one, but I like it, and I guess I will always be a bum."

The "Oudja."

The latest craze to strike Philadelphia is the wearing of the "Oudja," a pretty little Egyptian charm, supposed to ward off all forms of evil, says the Philadelphia Record. The charm is thin, and is about an inch long and half an inch wide. A conspicuous figure is the eye of "Horus," which represents the sun, and a tear drop hanging pendant from the eye represents the river Nile. The little charm, which has been worn in England for a couple of years, has been indispensable to the superstitious Egyptians for many centuries. A pretty story explains the English craze. A young officer in the English army sent one home to his bride with an explanation of its origin. After a battle in the Soudan the young officer was reported dead, but the wife refused to believe it. Later on, the official dispatches confirmed the death, but still the bride had faith in the little charm. Several months later the missing husband turned up alive and well and the "Oudja" became a fad of great proportions.

An Old-Timer.

According to the Denver (Col.) News, there is in that city a man nearly one hundred and fifty years old. His name is said to be Jonas Carpenter, a native of Virginia. The family Bible gives the date of his birth as 1752, but at that time, he states, he was driving an ox team in Gen. Braddock's army during the Indian wars of that period. He has an old forty-dollar Continental bill which he received during the war for services as a teamster, and he has kept it ever since. He is said to be in first-rate health.

PRESIDENTS' SONS.

The Hayes Boys—The Swaynes—Gen. Hayes' Wealth.

Writing on the topic of presidents' sons, I am reminded that ex-president Hayes has two young men who bear his name, says Carson Lake in the New York Press, but who were seldom heard of while he was in the white house. Indeed, the gentle qualities that distinguished their father and mother seem to have kept them in such seclusion that very few people to-day in the entire United States would be unable to say positively whether or not President Hayes has any sons. Webb Hayes is a prosperous manufacturer at Cleveland, O., where he pursued the even tenor of his way during his father's administration, and has built up a reputation for business ability and integrity which is all his own. Birchard Hayes is a member of the law firm of Swayne, Hayes & Swayne, at Toledo. The Swaynes are the sons of the famous justice of that name who was once on the bench of the United States supreme court and brothers of Gen. Wager Swayne, of this city, the associate of Judge Sidney Dillon, the law firm of Dillon & Swayne being the attorneys for Jay Gould and the great corporations in which that famous financier is the chief owner. I am told that the legal abilities of Birchard Hayes are of high order.

By the way, ex-President Hayes may safely be ranked among the millionaires of this country, and his wealth has come by happy combination of legacies and good business management. His grandfather, Rutherford Birchard, left him several hundred acres of land in Fremont and near Toledo. The growth of the latter city during the last twenty years brought Mr. Hayes' property into fair reach of its business center by means of street-car lines. Instead of placing it on the market he has held it until he could plat it himself, build houses on it and sell houses and lots, so as to make all the possible profit. I was talking the other day with a gentleman from Toledo, who told me that the ex-president had realized about three hundred thousand dollars within ten years from his sales of houses and lots on his property, and who estimated the value of the remaining property in Mr. Hayes' hands at not less than five hundred thousand dollars.

DOGS AND GHOSTS.

Fierce Canines Terrorized by a Made-Up Spook.

"Perhaps you are not aware," said a young lawyer to a scribe of the Charleston (S. C.) Democrat, "that dogs and horses are as much afraid of ghosts and other uncanny and mysterious things as are the most timid of the human race. I proved it one time on two dogs, at any rate. Not long after the war the negroes were so bad about our place in Kentucky that it was with difficulty that we could keep our belongings on our place. Every other method having failed I finally hit upon the plan of frightening them by appearing before them dressed as a ghost is said to habilitate itself. Of course the negroes were successfully frightened away from us, but upon one occasion I also frightened our two watchdogs as badly as any negro ever was frightened by ghostly apparition. The dogs were fierce fellows and would allow no stranger or strange thing on the place; but one moonlight night they came upon me in spectral attire. The dog that first caught a glimpse of me just humped up his back until all four of his feet covered not more than six square inches of Kentucky soil. His eyes stood out and his hair stood up, and he began moving backward, never for an instant taking his eyes off my figure. His companion came up, went through the same movement, and both began backing cautiously from me. And as long as I could see them they put distance between us in that way. A few moments later I heard them barking at home, half a mile distant. They had taken refuge under the house, and it was four days before we could coax them out again."

Fined Himself.

Perhaps the most disgusted man in Somerset county, says the Lewiston Journal, is a justice of the peace who is the owner of a fine garden, the pride of his heart. The other day he was informed that an unruly cow had wrought desolation in his Eden, and at once ordered the animal sent to the pound. Then he went up to view the wreck and after noting the vacant places where the beets and corn had been, the trampled-down squashes and cabbages and demoralized pea vines and sunflowers, and ascertaining, as he supposed, the owner of the cow, he made out a writ against the individual, containing fourteen different and distinct counts, including trespass, forcible entry, malicious mischief, nuisance, riotous and disorderly conduct, and assault and battery with intent to kill. It was then that he learned that the trespasser was his own cow, and his ire cooled as he meekly paid a field driver for getting her out of the pound.

A Mammoth Horse.

Valley City, N. D., has, it is said, one of the most extraordinary specimens of horse flesh in existence. He is a sorrel, stands fully nineteen hands, or six feet four inches from the floor to withers, his legs are three feet six inches before touching the body, and a small bronco can easily walk under him. A man six feet in height can't see over his back, even when standing on tiptoe. In length he is fully thirteen feet or seventeen feet from tip of nose to tip of tail. When standing with his head as ordinarily checked up, a seven-foot man, by standing on tiptoe, can just touch the base of his ear.

Men Who Travel.

An old railroad man named Lawton, now a sleeping-car superintendent at Indianapolis, Ind., has kept a record of his journeyings since 1863, and the total is 2,338,246 miles. Conductor S. G. Boone, late of the Reading, has covered 2,847,000 miles, and another Reading conductor has ridden something over 1,597,700 miles. Even these figures would be far surpassed by the record of some of the old captains of the ocean steamships.

Committed Suicide.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—The mysterious death of Carrie Smith, the beautiful stenographer of the law firm of Wiles, Green & Bitner has developed into a curious story. Miss Smith and Harry Bitner, the junior member of the firm, came here from Mount Carroll, Ills. It was understood they were engaged to be married. At Mount Carroll her people are among the most prominent in the county. The engagement, if any, was recently broken off. It is believed that when Bitner told her he was to be married to some one else she determined to end her pain in the waves of Lake Michigan. Bitner has begun a $50,000 libel suit against the Times for alleging that he was criminally responsible for the girl's death.

Disorderly Students.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The city theatrical managers propose to sit down promptly on any tomfoolery that may be attempted in the theatres this year after the Yale-Princeton football match, and they have got the police to back them up. For several years the jubilant collegians have run riot in the town after the game, and in the theatres have spoiled the enjoyment of other customers. This year the selling of seats in blocks to the college boys will be limited to the balcony chairs. The Garden theatre is the only exception. That has been entirely sold out to the collegians, but Manager French has asked to have an extra force of police. Theatre managers are willing that the collegians shall shout and sing between the acts, but they don't want any guying of the actors or any disturbance while the curtain is up. It is said that if any disturbance is created while the play is on the players will be called off the stage and the curtain will be rung down.

Dyspepsia

Intense Suffering for 8 years—Restored to Perfect Health.

Few people have suffered more severely from dyspepsia than Mr. E. A. McMahon, a well known grocer of Staunton, Va. He says: "Before 1878 I was in excellent health, weighing over 200 pounds. In that year an ailment developed into acute dyspepsia, and soon I was reduced to 162 pounds, suffering burning sensations in the stomach, palpitation of the heart, nausea, and indigestion. Intense I could not sleep, lost all heart in my work, had fits of melancholia, and for days at a time I would have welcomed death. I became morose, sullen and irritable, and for eight years life was a burden. I tried many physicians and many remedies. One day a workman employed by me suggested that I take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it had cured his wife of dyspepsia. Suffering I did so, and before taking the whole of a bottle I began to feel like a new man. The terrible pains to which I had been subjected, ceased, the palpitation of the heart subsided, my stomach became easier, nausea disappeared, and my entire system began to tone up. With returning strength came activity of mind and body. Before the fifth bottle was taken 8 Years I had regained my former weight and natural condition. I am today well and I ascribe it to taking Hood's Sarsaparilla."

N. B. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy any other.

ARE THE LARGEST COAL PRODUCERS ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE NANAIMO COAL (Used principally for Gas and Domestic Purposes).

THE SOUTH FIELD COAL (Steam Fuel).

THE NEW WELLINGTON COAL

House and Steam Coal are mined by this Company only.

THE "NANAIMO" COAL gives a large percentage of Gas, a high Illuminating Power unequalled by any other bituminous Gas Coal in the world, and a superior quality of Coke.

THE "SOUTH FIELD" COAL is now used by all the Leading Steamship Lines on the Pacific.

THE "NEW WELLINGTON" COAL which was introduced early in the present year, has already become a favorite fuel for domestic purposes. It is a clean, hard coal, makes a bright and cheerful fire, and its lasting qualities make it the most economical fuel in the market.

The several Mines of the Company are connected with their Wharves at Nanaimo and Departure Bay where ships of the largest tonnage are loaded at all states of the tide. Special dispatch is given to Mail and Ocean steamers.

The boiler of the steamer Kildonan will be replaced in the vessel in a day or two, the repairs on it having been completed.

The fast Sound steamer Bailey Gatzert, of Seattle, has been libelled for the payment of $5200 due on her engines and boilers.

The Government steamer Sir James Douglas returned last evening from a lengthy tour of inspection of the lights and buoys of the coast.

The steamer Thistle is having another mast and a bowsprit put in, so that more sail can be carried during the next sealing season. This will make the vessel much more economical in working.

The well known yacht Casco, belonging to the estate of the late Dr. Samuel Merritt, of San Francisco, has been sold to Captain Dier, of Victoria, B.C., for $6000. She has been lying in Oakland creek since her return from a cruise in the South seas with Robert Louis Stevenson. About six months ago agents of the French Government wished to buy the yacht for service as a revenue vessel at Tahiti, but the price they offered was too low. She is said to have cost $35,000. She will be fitted out for a sealing cruise.

WILMINGTON, Nov 25.—The following notice was posted on the doors of the First National Bank this morning:—"In consequence of the stringency in financial affairs and their inability to meet further demands, the directors of this bank have decided in the interest of all concerned to suspend business until further notice." The officers are in the bank, but every entrance is tightly closed and it is impossible to get any statement as to the condition of affairs. The capital stock of the bank is $250,000. The last published statement showed deposits of $435,000. An employee expressed the opinion that depositors would suffer no loss. A large crowd gathered around the bank, but the excitement is of a subdued character. Everything is comparatively quiet. HARVARD AND YALE.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 21.—The great game is over and Yale won, 10 to 0. Fully 20,000 people saw the blue wave victorious on Hampden Park today, and when the great contest was over it was the unanimous conviction that the best team had won. All morning the clouds hung heavily, but later the sun came out and the last requisite was added to make the day perfect.

The story of the game is simply one of supremacy of Yale over Harvard. The Cambridge eleven was simply outplayed, and the best team won. Harvard's rush line was fatally weak and of little assistance to her half-backs, while Yale's line was almost perfect. The great Heffelfinger fairly eclipsed his reputation, and easily proved himself to be the greatest guard in the country. Mackie was no match for him. For general all around work behind the line, Bliss carried off the honors of the day. His tackling and rushing were phenomenal. In punting he was a good match for the Harvard captain. Behind the line no word of criticism can be charged to the Havard team, but without support they were helpless against Yale's fine tacklers.

The blocking off was wretched, and the Yale rushers went down on their backs before they could start. Howell, Newell, Lake and Corbett did some brilliant individual work, but lack of team work neutralized it. Trafford's great punting did much to keep down the score. Much disappointment was felt in the work of the Yale captain. He managed the men finely, but when the ball went to him he repeatedly lost ground. It was a kicking game throughout. After Yale scored the first touch down in four minutes, Harvard began to punt, and continued these tactics during the rest of the game. In the first half the ball was in Harvard's territory most of the time, but in the second half Harvard forced the playing much of the time, and Trafford twice had a chance to try for the goal from the field, but failed both times.

Most of the Harvard men had arrived last night at 11:45, and the Yale delegation came at noon on special trains. All the smaller New England schools were represented, Amherst and Williams sending the largest delegations. The grand stand which encircled the field were packed with a gay and happy throng, and 160 uniformed officers were present to preserve order. The betting, which last evening was even, this morning was 10 to 6 in favor of Yale, and Harvard readily took bets of Yale men of $1000 to $600.

When play began the field was in as near perfect condition as could be. Experts pronounced it without question the finest football field in the country. Harvard was first in the field. Yale followed shortly after. Harvard won the toss and took the north end. Yale gained ten yards on the wedge, and McClung gained thirty yards in the run around the end, and the ball was within a yard of Harvard's goal line in three minutes, and a touch down made by McClung. Yale missed the goal. Score, 4 to 0 in favor of Yale. The ball was then returned to the centre and punted by Trafford, carried into Yale's territory, but the New Havens were playing a powerful game, and, yard by yard, forced the ball back to Harvard's thirty-yard line. Trafford then again got the ball and again punted it back to the Yale thirty-yard line, where Yale gained possession of the ball. McCormick then punted for Yale, but little was gained. Harvard got the ball, and formed a wedge and gained five yards. Trafford bunted to centre. The play was now chiefly in Harvard's territory. Yale gained ten yards in a break through Harvard's line, and McClung gained twenty yards in a run around the end. Trafford again tried a bunt, and sent the ball to Yale's forty-yard line, where it fell into McClung's hands, and he started to run for Harvard's territory. Before he could be stopped he had gone forty yards and had the ball at Harvard's thirty-five-yard line. Here Yale lost the ball, but Harvard failed to gain any advantage. At the end of the first half the ball was near the centre of the field in Yale's territory. Score: Yale 4, Harvard 0.

The second half began at 3:10, with the ball in Harvard's keeping. After vainly trying to break through the Yale line, Trafford bunted for 30 yards, but Yale got the ball and began to slowly force it back to the centre. Harvard finally secured the ball, and it was snapped to Trafford, who, by a lucky bunt, sent it to Yale's 15-yard line. But this availed nothing, as McCormick, on a strong bunt, drove the ball to centre, and on a fumble by Harvard, got the ball. Harvard seemed to be playing a stronger game than during the first half. Bliss then started on a run around the end of Harvard's 20-yard line, but here he was downed and Trafford got in another of his punts and the ball once more was back at centre, but here Bliss again got the ball and by another run carried it to Harvard's 25 yard line. The ball slowly work back to centre, where it again fell into Yale's hands, but she lost it. Yale got the ball after Harvard had gained ten yards, but McClung failed to get around the end and McCormick sent the ball to the 25-yard line, when Harvard got it by a fumble. Bliss got the ball and carried it across the line and McClung kicked the goal. Score: Yale 10; Harvard 0.

The teams were again lined up at centre and Harvard gained ten yards, but Yale soon forced the ball back to centre, but lost it, and Trafford tried for a goal from the field, but failed. Harvard's men began to play with desperation, and soon had forced the ball to Yale's 25-line yard, where Trafford again tried to kick the goal, but again failed, and Yale, getting the ball, made a gain of 20 yards. Here time was called and Yale had won.

The "Wicked Bible."

Among the curiosities of literature possessed by one of the big libraries of New York city, after a long search, is the edition of the Scriptures, published in several small volumes, known as the "Wicked Bible." There are two sets of books to which this title applies. One was published in England in 1631 and the other in Germany about a century later. Their peculiarity consists of the omission of the word "not" in the Seventh Commandment. Both editions are perfect in other respects. The history of Bible printing shows that the types have played many wild freaks with the text, but never anything equal to this. The "Wicked Bibles" are accordingly very highly prized by collectors.

The Poor Queen of China.

The queen of China is really to be pitied. At least so say the Chinese correspondents. As the very young wife of her boy husband she is entitled to a very large slice of royal good times. But the empress dowager is a strong-minded lady and rules with an iron hand. She is a woman of powerful physique, strikingly handsome, and of so firm and strong disposition that all other wills must bend to hers. When the emperor inadvertently does something to displease her he is made to regret it and as for his poor wife she has nothing to say at all. She isn't even allowed to have a good time as she might have if she were left alone.

WEBSTER'S READY WIT.

One of His Humorous Sallies While in Court.

More or less sportive artifice enters into the parry-and-thrust of lawyers' combats in court. Fancy the drollery of a man like Webster playing upon the word "doctor." Harper's Magazine says:

Daniel Webster, when in full practice, was employed to defend the will of Roger Perkins, of Hopkinton. A physician made affidavit that the testator was struck with death when he signed his will.

Webster subjected his testimony to a most thorough examination, showing, by quoting medical authorities, that doctors disagree as to the precise moment when a dying man is struck with death, some affirming that it is at the commencement of the disease, others at its climax, and others still affirming that we begin to die as soon as we are born.

"I should like to know," said Mr. Sullivan, the opposing counsel, "what doctor maintains that theory."

"Dr. Watts," said Mr. Webster, with great gravity.

> "The moment we begin to live
> We all begin to die."

The reply convulsed the court and audience with laughter.

A Petrified Bird.

"Tennessee cannot get ahead of Georgia," remarks the Atlanta Constitution. "The petrified man story has been exploded. And now Georgia boasts a wonder in the form of a petrified bird found in the heart of a tree which was blown down by a storm at Barnesville. The head of the bird was perfect, every outline being very plain. How the bird got into the tree is a question. There was no hollow in the tree, and it has caused considerable speculation."
